More About This Producer

In the Kasteelberg Valley, where the climate is very similar to the Mediterranean, you will find in a range of wines all born of superb soils with the best modern wine making techniques.

The balance of mild, wet winters with the fruity concentration of hot, dry summers, and honed in a cellar where time-honored processes live side-by-side.

The vineyard is passionate about the ideals of the Integrated Production of Wine (IPW), a South African initiative that aims to decrease chemical intervention and improve waste management. They are also a member of the WWF's (World Wildlife Foundation) Biodiversity in Wine Initiative (BWI), which underlines our commitment to protecting their land and keeping up the best farming practices to ensure healthier natural systems.
