Troy, Mich. – Woodberry Wine, LLC announces the addition of a highly rated, and up and coming Washington State star to its portfolio, JB Neufeld. There are three Cabernet Sauvignon's being brought to the market, Two Blondes (RP 91 pts), Artz Vineyard (RP 91 pts) and Yakima Valley (RP 92 pts). The owner/winemaker is Justin Neufeld, who is also the winemaker for Gilbert Cellars and shares winery operations with his wife, Brooke.

Premium Cabernet Sauvignon from Washington State is considered a relative value as compared to high-end Cabernet from California. Washington State's land costs are lower, water is plentiful and fruit quality is very high. As a result, the State ranks second in premium wine production in the United States and continues to grow as total wine volume rose 9% from 2007-2014 compared to .8% for California during the same time period. The success of winemaking in the Evergreen State has drawn the attention of California winemakers, as well as savvy consumers.

Dan Glisky, Jr., CEO and Managing Partner for Michigan distributor Woodberry Wine stated "Woodberry Wine is proud to offer the exceptional wines of JB Neufeld to our customers. They are a fantastic addition to our portfolio of boutique, high character wines for which we are known for in the marketplace. Consumers will love these wines and the pricing hits a sweet spot, especially for our on-premise clients." "We put our heart and soul into these wines," stated Justin Neufeld, "and we are excited to have the quality team from Woodberry Wine represent them in the Michigan market. They have an exceptional portfolio which we fit in nicely with, and I am looking forward to having them grow our brand."

The wines of JB Neufeld are immediately available throughout the State of Michigan.
